FCC Chairman

Mr. Ajit Pai

Dear Mr. Chairman,

With this letter I am expressing my strong support for net neutrality, and the continuation of the oversight by TITLE II of ISPs.

Your comment that TITLE II undermines infrastructure investments is incorrect. On Dec 9, 2014, in a phone conversation from your former employer Verizon's Executive VP and CFO Francis J. Shammo to its investors, to whom companies are legally obligated to tell the truth, Shammo stated what the switch to TITLE II would mean to Verizon: "... this does not influence the way we invest. I mean we are going to continue to invest in our networks and our platforms, both in wireless and wireline FIOS and where we need to. Nothing will influence that."

Having gone through issues with throttling of internet, I can only say that I insist on getting what I pay for, on continuing to get what I pay for, and of the continued protection of my internet access. TITLE II is the most solid legal foundation we, the customers, have right now for strong, and enforceable, net neutrality protections.

TITLE II works, internet is thriving, investments are thriving – there is no need or reason whatsoever to eliminate TITLE II protections – unless you want to be known as yet another promoter of corporations against consumer interests and protections.

Respectfully,
